

Email and file encryption using Galaxkey

Galaxkey is a secure encryption service which can be used for secure email communication containing personal or sensitive information.

This might include personal information about someone, confidential minutes, correspondence relating to investigation of a complaint, etc.

It can also be used to encrypt files locally on your PC.

You can sign up to an individual account at this web site: <https://www.galaxkey.com/Signup/>

You use your normal email address as your login and create your own secure password.

Galaxkey can be used through the web interface or software can be downloaded to your PC or other device. It integrates with Outlook.